

Tom Limoges is the Assistant Vice President of Investments for Security National Bank's Wealth Management Division. Limoges joined the Bank in 2003 after graduation from Morningside College, where he earned his Bachelor of Science in Business Administration. While at the Bank, Limoges attended Wayne State College and earned his MBA in 2009. He has accumulated 18 years' experience in investment management and enjoys working with the investment management team.

Limoges is the treasurer for Pheasants Forever and past president of the Center For Siouland Board. He also currently serves as a board member for the Raiders Youth Football Board and on the banquet planning committee for Ducks Unlimited.

At Security National Bank, everything matters and that is why Limoges understands that markets and investments can be very complex to clients. He enjoys educating his clients as part of their investment management process, so they can feel confident with their investments. In his spare time, Limoges enjoys spending his time outdoors, especially with his family, as well as coaching and spectating youth sports.
